OFFICINE CREATIVE PROFUMI

Through its fragrances Maison Tahité – Officine Creative Profumi presents its vision of sustainable luxury, based on the respect of both the environment and the consumer. In line with this engagement, we notably use recycled cardboard, vegetal glue and paper obtained from almond shells. The aesthetics of our packaging – amber-coloured bottles inspired by traditional pharmaceuticals, enhanced by a touch of gold – also embodies this idea of luxury. Our packages contain a plant-me card, as a contribution to preserving the beauty of our planet with a blossoming flower.

Why Maison Tahité?

Maison Tahité - Officine Creative Profumi is a creative workshop that aims to explore the iconic raw materials of perfumery, trying to represent them, time and time again, in an original and contemporary way.

This new project begins with the family of ingredients beloved by gourmands, starting with the fascinating raw material of vanilla, showcasing its various expressions of warmth and security, and at the same time the desire to escape to faraway paradises...

After exploring the innumerable nuances of Vanilla, our creative scent laboratory now sets to investigate the aromatic universe of a divine raw material, also known as “the food of the gods”: Cocoa.

By stimulating the release of endorphins, Cocoa pushes us to listen to our senses and indulge in hedonism. Its enveloping aroma is an invitation to enjoy every moment of life, without the guilty feelings often connected with the “sin” of eating chocolate. Perfumers such as David Maruitte, Paul Guerlain and Luca Maffei have developed this theme for Maison Tahité in a series of tempting creations inspired by Cocoa.

After having represented Cocoa and Vanilla's different facets, Maison Tahité is ready to embark on a new journey to discover one of the most popular gourmand raw materials of perfumery: Coffee.

According to the Experts, coffee aroma has about 5,000 different shades and olfactory combinations that are difficult to replicate. In this crossroads of interpretations, the Noses Delphine Lebeau, Paul Guerlain, Arturetto Landi and Stephanie Bakouche, created four unique and original fragrances, enhancing its charismatic and electrifying character. A brand new collection of aromatic, exciting and delicious Eau de Parfum: a tribute to one of the main symbols of Italian "savoir vivre".
